Overview

The Mastering Shipbuilding Management week provides a globally unique educational experience and is supported by the UK National Shipbuilding Office.

The 'Week' is designed to provide both academic and practitioner content that will be helpful to:

- Shipbuilders seeking new knowledge.
- Managers looking to transfer their skills to the shipbuilding sector.
- Managers being given broader shipbuilding responsibilities.
- Government customers wishing to learn about the industry, and its processes and challenges.

The Mastering Shipbuilding Management week starts with an overview of the UK national shipbuilding strategy and an independent presentation on shipbuilding competitiveness/benchmarks.

The Mastering Shipbuilding Management week focuses on a wide range of important shipbuilding functions, processes, and activities. The 'Week' brings together academics, consultants, and industrial experts to enable attendees to debate current and future practice. The second half of the 'Week' focuses on how shipbuilders can look to better integrate all the differing functions/processes to achieve competitiveness. The finale of 'Week' includes a pair of group exercises and a talk from a senior shipbuilder willing to share their personal experiences.

Why Attend

Participants will learn from:

- Academia
- Consultants
- Industry

The 'Week' provides an opportunity to network with the National Shipbuilding Office and other industrial/government attendees.

The 'Week' provides an opportunity to step back from the day job and reflect on shipbuilding as a business.

The opportunity to engage with LJMU Academics on current research.

The opportunity to visit and explore Liverpool.

Liverpool John Moores University

LJMU celebrated its 200th Anniversary in 2023. The University is renowned for its strength in maritime research and its close ties to the maritime city of Liverpool. The Mastering Shipbuilding Management week is part of the LJMU Professional Summer.

Liverpool

Liverpool is a 'world in one city' with a proud heritage of arts, music, sport and culture. Liverpool is home to Liverpool FC and Everton FC. The city has a large and historic waterfront which includes Cammell Laird and a busy cruise ship terminal. Those who love maritime heritage will find much to do, including visiting the Western Approaches Museum (Battle of the Atlantic), U534 The U-Boat Story, and much more.
